

Plot of angular velocity vs time:
Red curve represents the rotational period of the system, shifting from top (greater magnitude of angular velocity) to zero. That's when the oscillations around the mean position starts (represented in blue curve) and damped its way to mean position.

